Phoenix Gaming today announced the merging of its the South East Asian table gaming business with Indo Pacific Gaming. Phoenix was recently launched with offices in Sydney and Bangkok to fill the void following the withdrawal of several other table gaming suppliers in the Region and now has a significant presence and comprehensive range of quality products available for casino operators.

“At IPG we’ve been focussed on electronic gaming products recently and it’s been difficult to service our table gaming customers as effectively as we would wish.” commented Bill Redshaw, CEO at Indo Pacific. “We’re happy for our customers to be serviced by Phoenix who have a complimentary product range, good people, and huge experience dealing with the special opportunities that casino operators present in this region. The result must be better service and value for our customers.” He said.

As part of the acquisition, S.E. Asian Account Manager Robert Woodford, based in Cambodia joins Phoenix, working with customers in Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar and The Philippines, and IPG’s Australasian business will continue unchanged. Sales Director, Kevin Scorgie will continue to work with major accounts, servicing operators in Macau, Malaysia and Singapore.

“We’re excited about acquiring the IPG business and people and I look forward to working with Robert and adding the IPG Products to Phoenix’s already significant offering.” added Kevin Scorgie. “From inception Phoenix was established to bring high quality products combined with high levels of service to operators at affordable prices, we are now in an even stronger position to deliver!” Scorgie said.
